LESS TALK AND MORE HORSES URGENT NEED

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Without its traditions extending as far back as the middle of the last century, California racing would lose more than half its charm to the true admirers of the thoroughbred. As is well known, Theodore Winters, for whom the feature at Tanforan tomorrow (Saturday) is named, was not the first to bring out runners from the East, but he was the most important. His purchase of Norfolk for $15,001 attracted the attention of the entire sporting world; the colt, destined to be a successful sire, had won the first Derby ever run in this country.

Fortunately for the breeder, who had his nursery in Yolo County, Joseph Cairn Simpson, noted both as owner and writer on turf matters, had his mare, Marion, sent out here from Ohio some years after Norfolk made the trip. From the mating of Marion with either Norfolk or Joe Hooker came such never-to-be-forgotten stakes performers as Yo Tambien, Emperor of Norfolk, El Rio Rey, Rey del Rey, The Czar, and others.

On all sides one is asked as to the probable length of the present revival of California racing. The sanest answer is that the sport will continue indefinitely if the accent is where it should be: on the horses themselves. Build up nurseries in all parts of the state and have short meetings in the various centers of population, stir up local pride in the different counties in producing gallopers that can beat those from the others.

Extraneous affairs that are not an integral part of racing are holding back the sport right now. Some folks say they are not interested in the historical fact that Norfolk was a son of the great Lexington or that Norfolk won the Jersey Derby long before they were born. What they want is a winner; they care nothing for his blood lines. Others like to talk about a million dollars or more that was made at one of the courses in the state.

Marion was foaled ten years later than Norfolk and was a granddaughter of imported Bonnie Scotland, the stallion that founded one of the leading American lines. On the distaff side we find imported Glencoe, sire of Pocahontas, the immortal matron to which my King Heather traces in tail female. Through the generations an attempt has been made in England and in other countries to rear the highest type of horse and the problem is yet before us. The modern thoroughbred, despite all the attacks on his supposed lack of fundament, is a better animal than that of other times, when it comes to speed, stamina, and handling weight.

AUTO ACCIDENT CAUSE OF DEATH OF PEDESTRIAN

Colma Ranch Hand Struck And Fatally Injured At Boulevard Crossing

Another fatality was chalked up for automobile accidents last Sunday evening at Junipero Serra boulevard and San Pedro avenue.

While crossing the highway at that point, Giovanni Maffei apparently became confused and stepped directly into the path of a machine driven by G. Arthur Blanchard, president of the Blanchard Press, Inc., in San Francisco, receiving fatal injuries. Blanchard's car was traveling in a northerly direction on the highway, and he asserted he was unable to avoid the accident, as he did not see the victim until almost upon him.

After making his statement to police, Blanchard was released on his own recognizance. He appeared before District Attorney Ferrell at Redwood City on Monday and was not held, after telling his story.

The victim was taken to the Villa Sanitarium and was pronounced dead upon arrival. Deputy Coroner Luella Pepper took charge of the remains. An inquest is pending.

Deceased had no relatives in this country, so far as known, his only surviving kin being residents of Italy.

For some hours the identity of the victim was shrouded in mystery, as he had no intimate friends. On Monday afternoon the remains were identified by Messrs. Rosino and Garibaldi of Colma, as those of Giovanni Maffei. Deceased was recently employed at the Garibaldi ranch in Colma.

TWO FEATURES ON HOME COURSE OVER WEEKEND

First Appearance of Women Jockeys And Handicap For Three Year Olds

OUTSTANDING EVENTS

Two outstanding attractions headline the racing fare at this historic course this week. Feminine riders will compete Friday (today) May 17, in the first running of the Burlingame Town Plate, an event fashioned exclusively for women "jockeys." Stake stars will flash into action Saturday in the Winters Handicap, a $2000 added engagement for three year olds and up at a flat mile.

The Burlingame Town Plate is at six furlongs and will mark the first time that feminine riders have been seen in action at a metropolitan course in California since parimutuels were legalized. The race will be at "catch-weights" with the minimum impost set at 120 pounds. Some of the girls are reported "hitting the road" like regular jockeys in an attempt to tip the scales at exactly 120 pounds.

Some of the most noted women reinsmen in the United States will be seen under silks in the Burlingame Town Plate. Miss Hilda Hauser of Los Angeles, twice winner of events solely for women riders at Auga Caliante, is the pre-race favorite.

Daisy Parsons, one of the three licensed women trainers on this continent, is another likely choice. She owns and trains her own string of horses at Auga Caliente.

Alice Van, pretty Hollywood screen player, will have the movie city rooting for her. She also is a horse owner and recently rode Yogano at Caliente in her own silks.

Other noted feminine riders who will compete include Reba Gray, Dorothy Hunt, Paris Williams, Bonnie Gray and others.

The Winters Handicap is expected to bring out the best horses in California training today. Riskuius, ace of the Norman W. Church stable, appears the probable favorite and top weight of the engagement. Other likely starters include Chictoney, Slapped, Sea Cliff, John's Birthday, Black Forest, Distribute, Marceite, Toro Flight, Campillo, Chief Almgren and others.

ANNUAL BUDDY POPPY SALE HERE

Plans for local participation in the fourteenth annual nation wide distribution of Buddy Poppies were discussed at the last meeting of Old Glory Post No. 2044, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Buddy Poppy, copyrighted by the V. F. W., is one of the most popular philanthropic projects in the country. The flowers are made by disabled veterans in government hospitals and their distribution provides funds for the relief and welfare work of approximately 3200 local units of the V. F. W., as well as for the maintenance fund of the V. F. W. national home for orphans at Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

Buddy Poppies will be sold on the streets of Daly City on May 25, 26 and 27 by members of Old Glory Post No. 2044 and its Ladies Auxiliary.

SILVER BOOM HELPS KOOTENAY COUNTRY

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Appreciation in silver, together with large volume of production, enabled the Consolidation Mining and Smelting Company at Trail to report a surplus of $5,286,378 at the end of last year. That was after providing for current development, adding $18,850 to employees' pension fund and paying taxes of $450,187.

The silver output, naturally following the upward trend in the price of the white metal, increased from 5,551,349 ounces in 1933 to 7,316,231 in the next period of twelve months.

Production of lead, zinc and gold for the first three months of 1935 showed a decrease from last year, while silver and copper production increased.

Silver production increased more than 100,000 ounces over the same period of 1934.

The city of Trail is the hub of Kootenay prosperity and has a population that entitles it to a prominent position among the towns of interior British Columbia. As the home of the Consolidated Mining Company, operator of the world's largest non-ferrous metallurgical plant, much importance attaches to the city.

The first white men in the section were those in the David Thompson exploration party, which mapped the Columbia river in 1807. Construction of the Dewdney trail in 1865 opened the way for the development of the well known Rossland mines. Later came the founding of the smelter. The Dewdney trail gave the city of Trail its name.

Started in 1895 to treat the gold ores of the Rossland camp, the smelter of the Consolidated struggled with varied fortune for a number of years. A satisfactory method of treating the refractory silver-lead-zinc ores of the Sullivan mine was worked out in 1921 and from time on the company made rapid strides.

As is well known, the Sullivan is the world's greatest silver-lead-zinc mine.

The Sunshine mine on Big Creek, Idaho, the country's greatest straight producer of silver, is well launched on its program of taking 5,000,000 ounces of silver out of the enormous body of ore uncovered down to the 2300 level of the shaft.

The new mill equipment has been given its first tests and has settled down to its daily routine, yielding the results anticipated by the management. Its rated capacity is in excess of 600 tons daily. It is expected that rate will be maintained as mine and mill co-ordinate in their operations under the new system.

In the year 1934 the mine produced 3,205,460 ounces of silver for the largest output of any silver mine in the United States. The production easily places Idaho at the head of "silver states."

Under the latest regulations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, loans aggregating a total of $10,000,000 are available to individuals, partnerships and corporations; no single loan will exceed $20,000.

There are two types of loans, one for general mining and smelting purposes and to establish enterprises, and the other for development purposes to qualified borrowers whose prospects of successful development appear promising.

Compliance with NRA codes and all other federal regulations is made the condition of any loan. No dividends may be paid without the consent of the R.F.C. as long as any part of a loan is outstanding. Available reports on properties are to be filed with applications.

RESOLUTION FOR IMPROVEMENTS PASSES COUNCIL

Supervised Play Continued For School Grounds For Another Six Months

The City Council of Daly City met in regular session at the city hall on Monday evening of this week, with all members present.

On request of the California League of Municipalities, expressed through a communication to the council, the city clerk was instructed to wire Senator Parkman and Assemblyman Peterson urging them to support S. B. No. 561, which is designed to make further allocation of the share of gas tax to the municipalities.

The council went on record as opposed to legislation intended to take from municipalities the right to collect personal taxes on automobiles and the clerk was instructed to wire our senator and assemblyman to oppose any such measures now pending in Sacramento.

GARBAGE DUMPING STIRS SUPERVISORS TO DEMAND ACTION

Hearing Protests of Citizens Result In Insinuations Of Graft In Regard To Existing Contract

Things started out tranquilly at the County Board of Supervisors meeting on Monday and all went well until some one injected into the proceedings an odiferous piece of grapefruit (or was it orange or lemon); anyhow, it smelled like garbage.

After a resolution was read from the First Township Improvement Club, protesting against the continued dumping in San Mateo County of refuse, some citizens of Bayshore began to talk about "garbage," and then the fireworks began.

The supervisorial chamber was crowded with spectators from Burlingame and the north end of the county in which places, bitter war has been waged on the garbage dumping, especially at Mills field.

M. L. Rose, one of the protestants, asked the board to "eliminate $1400 a month graft" and "$6000 a month to the railroad" in connection with garbage disposal on the Bayshore tidelands. Rose stated that the son of a member of the San Francisco board of supervisors was a health doctor for the company that handles the garbage disposal.

Phillip Cain, president of the Bayshore sanitary commissioners, charged that San Francisco is violating the San Mateo County and the district's garbage laws, inasmuch as the temporary contract granted to the Scavengers' Protective Union expired in September, 1934.

Cain said at the time the permit was granted the district entered into a contract which was to continue for the same length of time as the permit. Now it appears, Cain said, the contract carries no specific date as

HOME TEAM TO PLAY AT JEFFERSON FIELD

Next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the Daly City Tanforan baseball team will play their third game of the first half of the Peninsula League schedule.

Their opponents will be the club from Half Moon Bay, and a good contest is anticipated, as both teams are pepped up to win.

The game should be well attended, as the boys have won one and lost one since the league series opened.

to the period of time it shall be in effect.

"Directors of the Bayshore sanitary district," Cain said, "were sold down the road on that contract. We don't want this garbage, and we welcome an investigation, but unless this county acts as a unit the garbage dumping will continue for 25 years."

This brought the statement from Supervisor Al Witt of Daly City, that the contract was "fraught with graft," and he demanded the supervisors investigate.

"There are ugly rumors of graft going around the county in connection with this contract," declared Witt. "We will never be able to settle this garbage dilemma until we get to the bottom of the contract."

Witt said he believed the person who drafted the contract "should be investigated."

Witt demanded that the matter be placed in the hands of District Attorney Gilbert Ferrell for "a thorough investigation." His motion was seconed by Supervosor John Poole and was carried unanimously.

District Attorney Ferrell said his investigation will be thorough and, if necessary, he will call in the county grand jury to aid him.

The supervisors referred to the district attorney a petition of 136 property owners within half a mile radius of Menlo School and Junior college campus, to redistrict the zone against sale of liquor.

The resignation of L. M. Giannini, San Mateo banker, as chairman of the county recreation commission, due to press of private business, was accepted, and Sam D. Merk, San Mateo civic leader and former relief head, was named to fill the vacancy.

A motion by Supervisor Witt directed Chairman Manuel Francis to appoint a board of censors for the county library, on recommendation of the county educational board. American Legion posts and county P. T. A. units will be invited to suggest the membership.

The board also agreed to accept a 700 by 50 feet parking strip at Half Moon Bay along the beach from Cowley.

The Dominican Sisters were granted the right to close Plaza Balboa at Granada during their summer camp.

A complaint against the condition of the Butano forest road was referred to the engineering department with instructions to take immediate action to put the road into good condition.

DALY CITY ROD AND GUN CLUB

Have Good Time, Hear Hot Talks And Catch Some Unwary Fish

(By W. F. Grantham)

On Saturday and Sunday last, members of the Daly City Rod and Gun Club trekked to the haunts of the stripers at Napa Slough, where they were the guests of President Joe Springer and the Pacific Rod and Gun Club, whose clubhouse was graciously donated for the occasion.

President Bodien, Secretary Kost, Treasurer Ennis, Sargent Grantham and twenty-four of the rank anglers (stress rank) attended. The outing was voted by far the most enjoyable affair conducted to date. An interesting address was given by our worthy president, with a resume of the growth of our popular club. Our illustrous secretary followed with a soul appealing movie, of why radios get sick, on which subject Mr. Kost gave the boys a very learned analysis and illustrated examples of things electrical sub rosa.

A midnight lunch and checkers followed, after which the sweet little anglers were tucked in their beds.

Sunday was given over to angling, in which the club conservationists showed their gallantry in refusing all efforts of the determined fish to cling to their hooks. The crowning feature of the perfect outing was a death defying exhibition of surf-board riding by Daredevil Milo. Our hero's daring and technique were appalling. This magnificient athletic time after time brought the crowd to their feet by his unique demonstrations.

When surrounded by salad, beef tagliarini and chicken the dare-devil once again proved the maxim of "keep your shape." Strange, the amount of food it takes to keep surf board athletes in condition.

It was with many regrets that the tired little boys started for home at the end of a perfect outing, which added another bright page to our club journal.

AIR THRILLER IS DARING FILM AT LOCAL HOUSE

Inventor Pilot Perfects New Instruments For Blind Flying Stunts

For those who like their drama replete with thrills, excitement and new ideas, Paramount's "Wings in the Dark," which opens at the Daly City Theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 19, 20 and 21, should be marked on their list as one they cannot afford to miss.

A love story laid against the timely and topical plot of a pilot who dares death in the perfection of "blind-flying," it stars beautiful Myrna Loy and Cary Grant as a pair of flying daredevils. And although it is impossible to gainsay the excellence of Miss Loy's recent pictures, she seems to excel even the best of her past performances in her breezy, down-to-earth and sympathetic role in "Wings in the Dark."

Cary Grant's characterization is equally gratifying.

The story is a very ably constructed one of an inventor pilot who perfects instruments for blind flying. He is actually blinded before he can hop off on the flight which will prove his instruments.

This turn of affairs involves him and those around him in a series of exciting situations. But he works on his instruments so that, even while blind, he can fly with them.

"One Mohe Spring," with Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, is on the same program.

explaining why such extension of service is not feasible, was referred to the planning committee.

A report of the city planning committee recommending rezoning of certain districts as business zones was adopted.

A time and place to hear arguments on the planning committee report was set for May 27 at the City Hall.

An ordinance was introduced and passed first reading to effect reorganization of the Daly City Fire Department, and to repeal all existing ordinances in conflict therewith.

Also one regulating the business of public dances, and declaring growing weeds on property within the city a nuisance and ordering their abatement.

The city attorney was authorized to begin legal proceedings looking to a survey with reference to the proposed new lighting system on Mission street.

On request of members of the Recreation Commission, the council continued the supervised play on school grounds on Saturdays and holidays for six months after its expiration period, early in June.

War Veteran organizations were given permission to hold a Memorial Day celebration and services at the city's park on Parkview avenue.

On request of the same organizations a wire was sent to the President urging him to sign the Patman bill regarding adjusted compensation for war veterans.

The council granted permission to Mayor H. H. Smith to leave the state for a period of ninety days. Mr. Smith explained that he contemplates making a trip of that length throughout the East and into Canada.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

By Chief A. P. Chesney

Another fire menace which the department has to keep a close watch on is the chimneys. A great many of them, before the days of inspection, were put up in a haphazard way and every once in awhile cause a blaze; but, as there are rules now in effect, we order them changed to the proper standard, and in that way we are getang rid of them.

Another menace which we are getting rid of is wooden shingles. After these have been exposed to the weather for a few years they are as dry as tinder and a spark from the chimney will ignite them very quickly.

On Friday of last week the sparks from a bonfire in a back yard on Mission street landed on an old shingled roof and when the department arrived the roof was on fire in four different places.

The expense of reshingling these old roofs with fire resistant or slow burning shingles is overcome by the reduction in insurance rates in a short time.

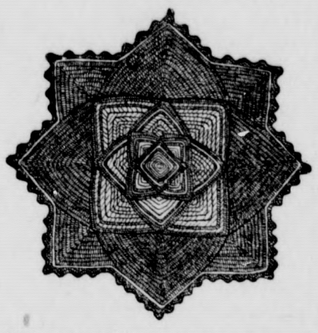
Unique "Primrose" Rug to Crochet

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK



This rag rug measures 42 inches and requires about three pounds of material to finish. It appears to be made of six squares each of a different size, with the horizontal positions alternating. Work is started with the center square about 5 inches in diameter. Triangles are then crocheted on the four sides of inner square forming the second square. Continue same way for third, fourth and fifth squares. The sixth square is the same size as fifth square and therefore requires smaller triangles on sides than the others. Colors should be so arranged that center is in light shades of yellow, while outer triangles represent the petals of flowers, and may be shaded in color desired. This can be made into a very attractive and unique rug, depending very much on the color scheme used.

This is one of the twenty-six crocheted and braided rugs illustrated with instructions in Grandmother Clark's rug book No. 25. Detailed instructions are given in this book for the "Primrose" rug, and if you are interested, send 15c to our Rug Department and we will send it to you by mail.

Hubby in a Corner

The Woman has been told that she encourages her husband to find fault, by humoring his every whim. But her answer is that he's the head of the house; the only husband she's got, and he's got a right to have things as he likes them, when he's at home.

And the other day he burst upon her with fire in his eye. "Mary," he commenced excitedly, "I don't like . . ." and paused with a curious change of expression, says the New York Sun.

His wife waited a long moment—two long moments—getting more and more curious. At last she spoke: "Yes, dear. What is it?"

John made no reply, and almost wished he hadn't started things up in the first place.

But Mary wasn't going to let go so easily. "I'm listening, John. Now, speak up and tell me what is it you—don't—like. . . .? Have you forgotten?"

That seemed to be that: "But," he mumbled, behind the sport columns, "I'll think of it presently!"

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that her real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris. He also discovers he is in love with Lanny. Stephen warns Penelope by cable to leave Paris, as her whereabouts are known.

"Make up your mind now that you will never mention those two names again as long as you live. You promise?"

"Yes, Doctor."

"Now, what is the name of the girl whose photograph you showed me?"

A curious slight spasm of distaste flashed across Flynn's face. He shuddered. "I don't know," he replied.

"What is the name of the girl who escaped from San Quentin?"

"I don't know."

Stephen struck Flynn a smart slap on the top of the head. "Wake up," he commanded.

Flynn came awake instantly and looked extremely foolish. "Well, you didn't stand the test," Stephen assured him. "You were falling asleep, so I awakened you."

"Am I pretty bad, Doc?"

"You're this bad, that if you do not take treatment you will be in a bad way. I'll give you a prescription. Come and see me again."

"Thank you, Doc. You're mighty kind. Good Lord, Doc, am I going crazy? I don't remember why I called on you."

"You asked me to identify this passport photograph," and Stephen held out the little photo to Flynn, who thrust it away.

"That's bad luck, Doc. Never mind. It's a matter of no importance."

He picked up his hat, bade Stephen good night and left.

CHAPTER X

When the cablegram sent to Penelope Gatlin had been delivered for at least three days Dan McNamara telephoned Lanny to ask if the girl had answered. Upon being told she had not, he was so cast down that Lanny felt sorry for him. So, like all women who feel sorry for a man, she decided to feed him, and invited him for dinner that night. She said Stephen would be there.

"That's no inducement," McNamara rumbled, "but I'll come anyhow. Thanks."

McNamara's thoughts kept shuttling back to Penelope Gatlin all that busy day. Finally he telephoned Flynn to report to him.

"How about that Merton case I sent up to the chief of detectives recently?" he asked, when Flynn appeared. (McNamara hadn't sent the case up at all, but he knew Flynn did not know this.)

"Oh, yes," said Flynn. "I did some work on that but didn't get anywhere. I called on the Merton woman and tried to get her to identify the girl's photograph, but she wouldn't or couldn't."

"Did you get a line on the girl?"

"Sure. Traced her to an address in Paris."

"Under what name is she registered with the Paris police?"

"Chief, I can't just recall it."

"It was Penelope Gatlin, wasn't it?"

Flynn flinched a little. "I don't know."

"You're as bad as Mrs. Merton. What's the matter with you?"

"I don't know, Chief. I think we might as well drop the case."

"Very well, then, forget it, Pat. I was mildly curious, that's all." He dismissed Flynn. "By Jupiter, that fellow's getting too deep for me!" he soliloquized. And he telephoned the captain of detectives. "What about that case of the lost Merton heiress?" he demanded.

"We've dropped it on Flynn's advice." McNamara grunted and hung up.

Lanny, wearing a kitchen apron, ceased cooking dinner long enough to let him in that night. Stephen had not yet arrived, so McNamara went out into the kitchen with Lanny, while he related the news regarding the common nuisance.

Lanny gazed upon him very benignly. "You're a good man, Dan McNamara. How come you've never married?"

"If I had, my mother would have lived with us," he declared. "How come you've never been married?"

Lanny sighed. "Nobody ever asked me."

McNamara sighed gustily. "My poor mother's very old and in bad health," he said.

"A man like you should have sons—fine, big, strapping, manly sons."

"How old are you, Lanny?"

"Forty-two."

"I'm forty-six myself." He sighed again. "You're a fine woman, Lanny—devil a finer. We might manage it."

"Manage what?"

"To put up with mother for the little time she has to live. God bless her."

"I never could stand a left-handed proposal, Dan." Lanny shook her head and gazed at him solemnly.

"Then here's my right hand on it, Lanny," and he laid his great right paw in hers. "If it's sons you'd have, you old darlin', 'tis little time we have to waste."

A faint flush came to Lanny's slightly faded cheeks. "What would Stevie do?"

"It's been my observation, Lanny, that a woman without something to occupy her mind is in a poor way. You could continue to look after the doctor's office."

"You've a good theory, Dan, but it lacks one ingredient."

"Name the lack and I'll get it."

"You're not in love with me."

"The h—l I'm not! You're like all the women—forever putting dogs in windows. I'm not used to passing words lightly on such a subject. Give me a yes or no answer."

"You great, lovable idiot!" Lanny yelled. Advancing swiftly upon the chief, she kissed his pompadour. "I'll risk your mother, Dan," she said softly. "All my life I've been looking for a man with a heart in his chest—and the day you first came into the office, with your big, swaggering way and your blarney and your air of owning the world, I—I wondered if you were married. I'm no longer young, Dan. I have peculiar ways and I'm bossy, too—"

McNamara drew her face down and kissed it. "What a blessing I'm used to that, Lanny, and have learned to be kind to the aged. Here, quit pulling my hair, woman."

The door bell began ringing.

"What's wrong with you, Lanny?" Stephen demanded when Lanny admitted him. "I rang half a dozen times."

"Do you good to wait once in a while," she snapped back at him.

"Mac," he declared, "you have a proprietary air about you."

"And well I may," McNamara replied pertly. "I've just popped the question to Lanny and we've agreed to jump over the broomstick together."

"I've been expecting this, Dan. She hasn't been worth a canceled postage stamp to me since she met you."

"But I'm not going to leave you, Stevie darling. Oh, I couldn't leave my boy!"

Stephen held out his arms and Lanny ran into them. And then Stephen warned Dan that if he wasn't good to Lanny he would hypnotize him, as he had hypnotized P. Flynn, and sell him the idea he was a pet poodle, so Lanny could kick him around at will.

"You what?" McNamara yelled. "You put the comether on Flynn?"

"Certainly." And Stephen told him the story.

"Three hundred years ago, in Salem, Massachusetts," said Dan McNamara, "you would have been burned for a witch."

The door bell rang insistently. "Now, who can that be?" Lanny exploded.

Dan rolled out of the kitchen and down the hall. Then Stephen and Lanny heard the door slammed violently; there was a scuffle, and something crashed to the floor.

He came into the kitchen a moment later, leading by her handcuffed wrist none other than Penelope Gatlin. "She wouldn't kiss me first," he announced, "so I put the cuffs on her—the little vixen."

"Oh, Lanny, you darling! And Stevie, you sweetheart!" Penelope cried, and extended her manacled arms. Lanny dodged in under them and folded the girl to her heart. "You next, Stevie." Penelope ordered, and obediently Stephen lowered his head and the looped arms came around his neck and drew his face down. "And now, Dan," the girl cooed, and turned her face upward.

McNamara laughingly uncuffed her. "Why didn't you cable us?" Stephen demanded, a trifle severely.

"I adore surprises, that's why."

"Why did you come back?" McNamara demanded.

"The proper place to hide oneself is in the spot one is supposed to have fled from. Lanny, don't let them stand around staring at me and asking me questions," moaned Penelope. "I'm hungry and so tired. Can I have my same little bed tonight?"

"You can have anything and everything you want, my dear."

"I want Stephen," came the answer, faintly tired, and the girl went to him and leaned her sleek black head against his breast. "I've missed you so, Stephen."

Stephen held her close with his left arm, and his right hand came up and cautiously fingered her poor nose. "God's on our side, Lanny," he told his nurse. "Tomorrow I want you to arrange for a room in St. Dunstan's hospital. We'll get Boyd to operate."

"Please, Stephen, do I have to go away any more?" asked Nance.

"No, not any more, my dear."

"And you'll fix my nose? I wanted to have it done in Paris, but when you sent me that cablegram I couldn't, of course. Can I have just the nose I want, Stephen?"

"Yes, little wanderer. And when that's done you shall have the kind of home you want. You've been lost in the woods, poor babe, but I'll lead you out into the loveliest sunshiny meadow imaginable."

McNamara had, throughout this scene, felt a lump in his throat. He glanced at Lanny and saw the tears of sympathy in her brave, kindly eyes, so to avert a scene he growled huskily: "When do we eat?"

* * * * * * *

For the first time since Penelope Gatlin, alias Nance Belden, had come under his notice, Stephen Burt had a reasonable opportunity to examine the girl, when, following dinner at Lanny's house, Penelope, Lanny, Dan McNamara and Stephen retired to the drawing room. Despite the strain of her record-breaking journey from Europe, Penelope was not so tired that she wished to retire early. She joined in the general conversation, and Stephen noticed that she seemed inclined to be argumentative, but her arguments indicated no cogent thought; frequently she employed the patois of the underworld; her language was racy and idiomatic. He noticed that her laugh was sudden, loud—the laugh of a vulgarian. She was nervous; her hands twined and intertwined continuously, she moved about the room a great deal, and finally came to rest on Stephen's knees. She looked into his eyes searchingly for a long time and then said accusingly:

"You don't care for me."

"Why do you think that, Penelope?"

"Because nobody could love a girl with a nose like mine."

"Did you bring back the sketches that Parisian artist made of you?"

She bounced off his lap and hurried upstairs, to return presently with a portfolio filled with sketches. There was one crayon drawing of her as she was. A half dozen additional sketches were copies of the first, with the exception of the nose. The artist had fitted into her features a nose of his own design, and viewed in profile some of his creations lent to the girl's face an aspect of singular beauty and sweetness.

"I like this one best," Stephen decided. "The patrician nose does you justice. Going to come over tomorrow and give you the most searching physical examination you've ever had," he decided. He drew her over to him and kissed her on the cheek, paternally. "You're a nice, sweet, lovable girl, Penelope," he assured her as if she were a little girl, "and the shape of your nose isn't taken into consideration by the sort of people whose love and approval you desire. And you can get along very well without the love and approval of any other sort. Dan and Lanny and I all love you and we want you to love us. We're your only real friends and you wouldn't do anything to hurt us, would you?"

"I'd rather die, Stephen."

"Fine. You're tired now, so suppose you run upstairs to bed, and tomorrow, when you wake up, you'll be refreshed and happy and we'll be able to discuss the making over of this poor nose. Kiss us all good night."

Lanny Sighed. "Nobody Ever Asked Me."

Penelope dutifully obeyed, and as she was starting up the stairs Stephen said: "And don't forget to say your prayers."

She grimaced disdainfully. "You must think I'm a nut—saying my prayers. I've been prayed to death."

"By whom?"

"I don't know, but by somebody. It makes me ill."

"That was the subconscious revulsion to her adopted mother coming out," Stephen told McNamara. "Mrs. Merton has a strong religious mania. That girl's a mighty healthy specimen," he continued. "I noticed, when I was dressing the wound in her shoulder, that her skin is soft and silky, not rough and dry, as in the case of psychopathic personalities. Everything about her seems to indicate sound ancestry, and I'm more than ever convinced that her mental disturbance is not organic. However, that's a lead we can run down after we've fixed her nose."

MEMORY OF WAR NEVER LASTING

Horror Has Small Effect on New Generations.

It is not so long since war was "outlawed" and the outlaw was ostracized. Even that mild and gentle child named Neutrality was not mentioned in polite or academic society. The slogan was not neutrality in thought, but peace in thought.

Now the outlaw is found not to be dead, but lurking in the woods, and it is discovered that all nations border on the same forest. The youth and some of their elders contemplate the future possibility of war by forswearing any participation in it—when it comes. Veterans' organizations advocate legislation now to take the profit out of war—when it comes. Scholars and students of peace begin to re-examine the utility of our traditional neutrality policy as a device for keeping us out of war—when it comes.

Through it all drones the refrain of those who picture the horrors of the next war—the wiping out of cities from the air; newer and more frightful gases; death rays. The same song was sung before 1914 and long, long before. It has never deterred nations from war, because it acts, if at all, on the individual and not on the mass, not on the nation, not on the government.

Even for the individual it is too overwhelming and too remote to be grasped except by those in whom it touches and torments the chords of personal memory. Soon a new crop has ripened. Those impersonal things known as governments respond more readily to the stern high calls of national honor and prestige. They seek, often sincerely, the welfare of their country. It is both a material and a spiritual welfare. Would either be served by war today or on a near tomorrow?—Philip C. Jessup, in Current History.

LEGAL OPINION ANALYZES SPEED LAW DECISION

Appellate Court Interprets Intent and Meaning Of California State Act

While the act of driving at a speed greater than the limit is not of itself alone a violation of the law under safe conditions, an officer is justified in viewing the act as first hand evidence of unlawful driving and in making an arrest. The arrested person, if he desires to contest the charge, has the right to present evidence that speed in excess of the limit at the particular time and place did not involve a violation of the basic rule of safety contained in the law.

This, in substance, was the opinion recently handed down by the Appellate Court interpreting the actual intent and meaning of the California speed law. The court granted a writ of habeas corpus applied for on behalf of a motorist convicted of speeding in Madera County, holding in effect that the complaint was insufficient because it presented only the bare charge that the defendant was driving in excess of the 45 mile limit.

A sufficient complaint, the court indicated, would have to charge that in addition to driving at a speed greater than the limit the motorist was at the same time violating some portion of the basic rule, which reads:

"Any person driving a vehicle on the public highways of this state shall drive the same at a careful and prudent speed, not greater than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway, and no person shall drive at such a speed as to endanger the life, limb, or property of any person."

The opinion gives emphasis to a further provision of the law to the effect that "speeds in excess of those set forth in this section shall be taken as prima facie but not as conclusive evidence of a violation."

This language, the court holds, leads to the conclusion that the legislature intended, and could not only have intended, that speeds in excess of the limits should not in and of themselves conclusively constitute offenses.

The opinion voices the further conclusion "that the legislature has had in mind the hardships relating to a maximum speed, and the dangers of unlimited speed, the changed conditions of the highway, the vast improvements made in their construction, and likewise the continued improvements made in automobiles and the added control now given the driver which did not exist in the early days of the motor industry."

"This has necessitated the adoption of what we may call a 'middle of the road' rule," the opinion continues. "That is, the legislature has not adopted, under all conditions, a maximum speed limit. Nor has it, considering the hazards which would be presented, done away with the speed limit."

IMPROVEMENTS ON SCHOOL GROUNDS

As you glance about the school grounds, you will find there are a number of projects going on to benefit the students of Jefferson.

Just behind center field of the baseball diamond, work is under way on four new tennis courts. The courts will be modern in every respect, and will be enjoyed immensely by the students.

SERA workers are now busy on the new play field behind right field. This field will probably be used by physical education students for playing touch football when the grass is wet on the football field.

A system of sprinklers is being placed on the front lawn. Pipes are being laid down and the modern method of watering the front lawn will greatly relieve the work of the gardener.

Jefferson is also going to have a new water supply. Down by the old pump house, workers are beginning on a new well.

All these projects are being done to make Jefferson a better school, and this work should be appreciated.

AMERICAN LEGION TO SELL POPPIES

"Honor the dead and serve the living," is the message which the memorial poppies will bring to the people of Daly City on Poppy Day, May 25, says Ed Trier, commander of Daly City Post No. 410, of the American Legion, in a statement today urging all veterans to give fullest support to the Poppy Day observance.

"Men who served in France have an indelible picture of the poppies in their minds, closely associated with the memory of their comrades whom they left overseas," the commander said. "Soon after the American Legion was organized the poppy was adopted as its memorial flower and the custom adopted of wearing the flower on the Saturday before Memorial Day in tribute to the war dead.

"The distribution of the poppies on Poppy Day was placed by the Legion in the hands of those loyal, patriotic women who compose the American Legion Auxiliary. Through their volunteer efforts they recall for all America the inspiring services of the men who died in the poppy flecked fields of France and Belgium. They also raise funds for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare work among those who were not called upon to die, but to sacrifice strength and health in the nation's defense, the disabled veterans, and for the families of the dead and disabled.

FROG JUBILEE TO SET A WORLD RECORD

Out of more than five hundred entries in the 1935 Jumping Frog contest which is the major attraction at the Jumping Frog Jubilee held May 17-18 and 19 at Angels Camp, Calaveras county, a new world's record is expected to be set this year. The old record of 13-6, set by "General Grant," owned by six-year-old Lauren Crespi at the 1934 hop ,is scheduled to be broken by several of the entrants already entered in this year's contest.

Jumping frogs from all parts of the United States are being shipped to Angels Camp by their owners to take part in the contest. The latest out-of-state frog to enter is "Chief Hagler," owned by John Carpenter of Maiden, North Carolina, who claims his frog was christened "Chief Hagler" in honor of one of the famous chiefs of the Catawba Indians of North Carolina.

Carpenter writes "that since early tadpolehood the Chief has been under the constant training and care of "Uncle Bob, one of the few remaining slaves in Maiden." "Uncle Bob" says Carpenter in his communication to the Angels Boosters Club, "was born a chattel of my great-grandfather in 1845, and was sold when the state was settled for $250 at the age of two."

Two hated rivals, one owned by the San Francisco fire department and one owned by the Los Angeles fire department will face each other in a special attempt to carry off the honors of the world's championship in the frog jumping contest.

The first of the preliminaries in the frog jumping contest will begin on Saturday morning, when, like the famous Kentucky Derby, the progress of the event will be broadcast over a national radio hook-up.

STATE COUNTIES CONSTRUCT FAIR BUILDINGS NOW

Rapid Progress Being Made In Erection Of Individual And Group Structures

As artists and craftsmen started continuous work, in shifts the clock around, building and installing the government's exhibits in the California State building at America's Exposition, opening in San Diego May 29, Adolph Muehleisen, commissioner, announced the names of counties which will share in the same structure. Thirty-three of the counties of the state will participate in this building.

Several groups of counties are uniting their efforts to present a more effective display, such as the San Joaquin Valley group, including Calaveras, Fresno, Kern, Kings, Madera, Merced, Tulare and Tuolume.

Central costal counties: Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, San Benito, Monterey, Santa Cruz, Santa Clara and San Mateo.

Redwood Empire: San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte.

Tri-Counties: San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange.

Counties making individual displays are: San Francisco, Los Angeles, Alameda, San Diego, San Joaquin, Mariposa and Stanislaus.

Exhibits of the following California departments and other governmental agencies are now being installed:

Natural Resources, with demonstrations of activities in connection with fish and game, forestry, parks, gas and oil, mines and minerals.

Public Works Department, including water resources displays, architecture, motor vehicles, highway patrol and an animated demonstration by the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge authority.

Others are Department of Education—apart from Palace of Education, which is devoted wholly to this subject. State Printer, Athletic Commission, Criminal Identification Bureau, California Indian Museum, Department of Agriculture and Adjutant General's Department of the National Guard.

TO OUR READERS

In working up to the achievement we have ever in mind, that of making the Daly City Record the best weekly newspaper in the state of California, we must have the hearty co-operation of the residents of this live community. The editor hears in unison the ejaculation from all readers:

"Why, how can we help?"

Succinctly stated, you can help the editor to accomplish what you must admit to be his highly laudable ambition by bringing or sending news to the Record office, and, what is equally important, bringing or sending it early.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

BUSINESS LOYAL TO NRA

The rapidity with which industry and trade have rallied to the support of the NRA is illustrated by the fact that within three weeks some 250,000 business units expressed their desire for a continuance of the law to the Industry and Business Committee for NRA Extension, Ward Cheney, president of Cheney Bros., and chairman of the committee, pointed out here.

These companies, which have promised their support to the efforts for extension of the Recovery Act, employ more than 1,800,000 workers and do an annual business of almost $5,200,000,000, according to estimates compiled for Mr. Cheney by the organization. Some 57 industries, ranging from large to small, have promised the committee complete co-operation. Many others have expressed themselves as in sympathy with the movement, but prefer to let Congress know of their attitude through their own organizations.

Others have indicated their approval of the effort, but because of various reasons cannot as yet go on record as being in favor of an extended Recovery Act. Mr. Cheney felt, however, that those groups and individuals which had assured the committee of full co-operation represented an excellent cross section of American industry.

While it would now appear that there is reasonable assurance of extension of the NRA in some form or other, and while the committee may have played a small part in swinging the pendulum of opinion to the act, Mr. Cheney indicated that his group has only just started and will bend every effort "to keep the ball rolling."

Until the continuance of the NRA is absolutely certain the committee will not enter the second phase of its program, which will be an effort to assure the soundness and acceptability to industry of the new act, in whatever form it is proposed.

Through focusing attention on those individual companies and groups which want retention of the act, Mr. Cheney felt that his committee has started a movement which is now being duplicated in other sections of the country. Daily and local headquarters of the committee are receiving communications and newspaper comment from other sections complimentary to the movement and relating similar drives.

Mr. Cheney expressed confidence that such work will result in accomplishment of the big task of correcting the erroneous impression which the more vocal minority of dissenters have created about the NRA. When people are satisfied about a condition, they rarely express opinions, he said. It is the dissatisfied man who is the most articulate and whose views most frequently receive attention.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Revival Sign Seen in Machinery Industry: Figures compiled by government agencies show some of the long-dormant industries supplying capital or durable goods are displaying signs of a revival.

Stirring toward recovery apparently have been pronounced in those producing electrical equipment and machinery and in residential building.

Further substantial recovery also has been recorded in motor and farm equipment lines, but many statisticians are reluctant to classify them as durable goods.

On a percentage basis, the most impressive gains in employment, as shown in the Labor Department's figures, have been in some of the durable goods industries, particularly machinery.

Sales of Shoes Show Steady Upward Trend: Shoe sales show a steady uptrend. They are expected to increase substantially over the next few weeks. Fall shoes, which will be displayed May 13, are expected to bring in a good volume of business as they will contain many new colors, designs and styles.

Neither rains, duststorms, the late spring, nor uncertainty of legislative action have prevented a substantial demand for shoes, according to the consenus of shoe retailers gathered here for their semi-annual style conference.

Nation's Wealth Rose 16.6 Per Cent in 1934: National wealth of the United States amounted to 264.4 billion dollars in 1934, against 237.2 in 1933 and 226.7 in 1932, the low for the depression.

Thus, although the 1934 total was 16.6 per cent higher than in 1932, it was 42.6 per cent lower than the record high of 460.6 billion dollars in 1929.

Middle West Looks For Steady Expansion: Improvement in manufacture and sales in most lines of business in this territory is indicated by reports for the first quarter of this year.

All business distributors handled a greater tonnage, with the majority showing fair profits, compared with 1934. A disposition to look forward to a steady expansion is apparent, especially as employment increases.

Steel Companies Double Quarterly Income: Sharp improvement over the first three months of the last year was indicated by three steel companies reporting for the first quarter of 1935.

Although still some distance from the profit mark, United States Steel Corporation showed a sharp reduction in the size of its total deficit, from $12,035,818 in the preceding quarter to $3,975,206 in the quarter just closed. This compares with total deficit of $8,791,370 in the first puarter of 1934.

Carloadings Hold Above 1934 Totals: The Association of American Railroads announced that carloadings of revenue freight for the week ended April 20 totaled 610,905 cars, increases of 23,220 above the preceding week, and 19,200 above the same week in 1934.

Miscellaneous freight totaled 249,718 cars, increases of 9,678 above the preceding week and 9,035 above last year.

Merchandise in less than carload lots totaled 160,354 cars, decreases of 905 below the preceding week and 5482 below 1934.

Coal loading rose to 115,363 cars, increasing 5161 above the preceding week and 13,156 above 1934.

March Auto Sales Set Four-Year Record: March factory sales of automobiles manufactured in the United States amounted to 429,830 vehicles, the largest monthly output since April 1930 when 444,024 units were constructed, the Department of Commerce monthly survey said.

March sales compared with 340,544 in February 1935, and 338,434 in March 1934. Passenger cars produced last month totaled 361,913 and trucks numbered 68,017.

Plate Glass Output Hits Peak in March: The production of plate glass in March was 16,531,950 square feet, the highest monthly production on record. The previous peak was 14,733,327 square feet in August 1929.

The March total compared with 13,723,151 square feet in February of this year and 9,926,859 square feet in the month of March 1934.

Bankers' Magazine Sees Business Gains: Favorable changes outnumbered the unfavorable in the business situation in the latter part of March and the first half of April, according to Banking, the publication of the American Bankers' Association. The magazine says, however, that the changes which occurred could hardly be said to have modified the fundamental situation materially.

Developments which the publication classifies as favorable include a distinct improvement in residential building; improvement in industrial production, particularly in automobiles; a continuance of brisk retail trade in the rural areas; a cessation of the declining tendency in prices that had been a feature of the February recession in business; a spectacular increase in the ratio of security refunding under the leadership of the United States treasury, and, on the foreign front, the orderly devaluation of the Belgian currency.

LEGION AUXILIARY POPPY COMMITTEE

Complete plans for theobservance of Poppy Day here on Saturday, May 25, were announced by Margaret Orr, poppy committee chairman of the Daly City Unit No. 410 of the American Legion Auxiliary, following a special meeting of the committee. Organization of a corps of volunteer workers to carry out the distribution of the memorial poppies throughout the city was completed and leaders appointed to direct the work in the various areas.

"The American Legion Auxiliary poppies will be distributed entirely by volunteer workers," said Margaret Orr. "The response to our call for volunteers has been very gratifying from both our senior and junior members, and we will be able to give everyone in the city an opportunity to wear a poppy on Poppy Day. As the workers will serve entirely without pay or commission, every penny contributed in exchange for the flowers will go for the welfare activities of the Legion and Auxiliary.

Upton Sinclair again nosed into the political picture with a letter sent by him to Assemblyman Harry B. Riley at Sacramento. He urged placing a small ad valorem tax on individual and corporate property "payable at option of the state in goods and services." The effect of the tax would be to increase production, declared the author-politician.

California will have no fee-charging employment agencies, according to plans of Governor Frank Merriam and the state advisory council of the California Free Employment Agency Service. "No jobs will be sold to men and women out of work from now on if the state of California can help it," declared R. S. Stockton, chief of the service.

The highlight of Long Beach's eighth annual twin convention was a twin wedding, in which the bride, ten pairs of bridesmaids, five pairs of flower girls and the marrying judge were all twins. Ranging in age from seven weeks to 84 years, 680 pairs of twins attended the meeting.

Epic followers, who do so well in primary elections but foozle out when it comes to the final vote, were almost crushed in Los Angeles during the city-wide election. Only five Epic candidates made the City Council out of 15 places. All Epic candidates for the school board failed to make the grade.

"We want Sargent!" By chant and banner over 100 Jackson Joint High School students let their community in Amador County know that they opposed Teacher Dorothy Sargent's dismissal. A student strike and parade followed the school board's action not to renew the teacher's contract which expires in June.

Marching to the state Senate, after receiving a 62 to 14 approval by the Assembly, was a bill proposing a state law patterned after the Federal NRA. The bill would give industries doing business exclusively in California the right to establish codes upon a majority of the industry petitioning the governor. Reasonable profits, fair hours and wages are the codes' purposes.

After ten days of conferences the Joint Legislative Tax Steering Committee has agreed on a program to balance the state budget for the next biennium. About $93,000,000 in new revenue will be raised from six new tax sources, according to committee findings. These levies are a sales tax jump to 3 per cent, hard liquor tax, income tax, 20 per cent increase in inheritance tax and transfer of auto property tax to state plus a jump of the auto license rate from three to five dollars.

California has no fixed maximum speed limit. This decision was handed down by the Third District Court of Appeals at Sacramento, following an appeal for a writ of habeas corpus by T. I. Moseley, who was arrested for driving 70 miles per hour in Madera County and had been sentenced to five days in jail. Under the new interpretation, an officer may arrest a person driving over the speed limit; it then becomes incumbent upon the person to prove that he was not endangering life, limb or property.

As a preliminary to launching a headlight and brake drive, Chief E. Raymond Cato of the California Highway Patrol has ordered an inspection of all brake and headlight-testing stations throughout the state.

San Francisco has asked the Federal government to forward as much as possible of the $56,000,000 needed to construct seven and three-quarters miles of subways under Market, Mission and Geary streets as part of the city's gigantic rapid transit project in connection with the two new bridges.

Uncover Mayan Cities Fifteen Centuries Old

Carnegie institution scientists probing the dense jungles of Guatemala and Honduras have made new discoveries in connection with the ancient Mayan civilization which flourished in Central America when a few people still lived who could remember the crucifixion of Christ. Under many feet of deposited silt and tangled vegetation they have found cities once populous and richly built with palaces and temples, but deserted now for 15 centuries. One ruined city in particular in northern Guatemala has attracted attention. It is surrounded by a moat very similar to those used extensively centuries later in Europe. Originally the ditch was about ten feet deep and ten feet wide. It was spanned in different places by seven masonry bridges, and was connected with a nearby swamp so that during the rainy season it was filled with water. This is the first moated city ever found in America and it is not certain whether it was used as a means of protection against raiding tribes or whether it had a religious meaning. In Honduras an expedition has uncovered two stone altars and many monuments. All were ornately carved with the picture writing of the ancient Mayas which leaves us a record of their empire.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Kindness

Kindness resembles long-suffering in finding its chief objects in the evil and unthankful, but while the latter is passive and self-contained, kindness is an active, busy virtue. She is, moreover, of a humble and tender spirit, stooping to the lowest need, thinking nothing too small in which she may help, ready to give back blessing for cursing, benefit for harm and wrong. Kindness is the thoughtful insight, the delicate tact, the gentle ministering hand of love. —Findlay.

MARRIED THIRTY YEARS AND HAVE FIRST VACATION

Mayor and Mrs. H. H. Smith Depart For Tour Through East And Canada

After having been wedded for more than 30 years (good, we'll say) this month, Mayor H. H. Smith and his estimable wife are starting out this week for their first real vacation.

The couple will leave by plane from Mills Field on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock for Los Angeles on the first hop. On Monday morning they fly to Kansas City, to spend several days.

From that city they will go direct to Washington, D. C., where they will hobnob with the members of Congress and probably the President and learn how government business is conducted at the national capital. (Maybe the mayor will give the President a few pointers).

From Washington Mr. and Mrs. Smith will go to South Bend to purchase a new automobile and make the balance of their trip by that means of locomotion.

Stops will be made at principal cities en route to New York. Then they will motor to Montreal, Quebec, where Mayor Smith was born fifty-two years ago, leaving there at the age of six months and never having returned to his birthplace in all those years.

They will return by way of Niagara Falls to Chicago and across country to visit Yellowstone Park, Butte, Great Falls and on through Calgary, Canada, Lake Louise and other points of interest.

They will stop at Vancouver and then make the home trip down along the coast.

It is expected the trip will consume three months, as they will take many side trips along the route.

The mayor carries with him from Governor Merriam, Secretary of State Jordan, Senator Parkman and other officials numerous letters of "good wishes" and introductions to officials of the various cities where stops will be made.

All friends join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Smith a pleasant journey and safe return and hope they will enjoy a real good time.

SECOND GAME OF LEAGUE RESULTS IN HOME DEFEAT

Weird Baserunning, Errors And Erratic Fielding Is Cause Of Downfall

(By Al Gould)

It's all over now. The curtain came down on the worst imitation of an attempt at playing baseball by our home town entry in the Peninsula League on Sunday afternoon at the Jefferson High School diamond, when Johnnie Maretti's Bear Photo tossers were presented their second victory—"on a silver platter," as the saying goes. The final score was 11 to 5. However, due credit should be given to the victors, as every member of the winning team played heads-up baseball in all departments throughout the contest.

Perhaps there will be vitriolic shafts of criticism forthcoming—because the home team was at once crude, brilliant, slovenly, precise and amateurish in both offense and defense; but this defeat may be just the tonic that the lads needed to wake them up to the fact that they are not unbeatable, and that each man should at all times have but one purpose in mind while on the field—to play ball for the success of the team as a whole and to play the game with the view only in mind to win the contest.

Five errors by the infield presented the visitors with nine of their eleven runs; but, all in all, the team as a whole was far below its playing ability, while the visitors played a game which might be said to have been slightly above their proven form. But, the fact remains, they won!

Enuf sed!

Clean Strainer

Occasional cleaning of the strainer at the bottom of the carburetor is now considered a necessity.

If the carburetor mixture is believed to be excessively rich it should be adjusted by an experienced service man.

The annual picnic of the Veterans organizations of Daly City will be held at Vallamar Park on Sunday, May 26. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. MacCarthy and sons of Bellevue avenue were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Peck of Colma on Mothers Day.

A whist party will be held this Friday evening, May 17, at Daly City Hall by Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church. Mesdames Mullen, Maxwell, Murphy, Murray, McGuinn, Michelsen, Layden, Lewis and many others report having some wonderful prizes and everything indicates a fine whist. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wettstein and children of Brunswick street, accompanied by Frank Schuler and Mr. and Mrs. V. Riley and children, motored to Newark on Mothers Day and spent the day as the guests of Tony Homen.

The members of Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, received Holy Communion in a body at the 8:30 mass in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church on Mothers Day. Mrs. O'Hara, a member of Court Fresno, the hostess court for the convention to be held in Yosemite Valley the last week in May, was a visiting member and joined the communion group.

DALY CITY NINE TRIUMPHS AGAIN

Playing air-tight baseball behind Davies, the Daly City A. C. took in hand the strong Oceanico Club Sunday afternoon at Jefferson Union High School diamond.

Pitching a masterly game, Davies, the local twirler, allowed but three scattered hits and struck out sixteen men. Joe Lucia with Gurstenburg, Nilson and Tom Long, took the honors for batting.

Both teams drew goose eggs until the fifth frame. The Oceanics scoring one run and Daly City scoring three. The visitors scored another in the seventh, making the score three to two. The eighth saw the last of the visitors when the first batter, Plansky walked. Pasterini struck out. Gurstenburg singled to left, sending Plansky to third. Sam Lucia struck out, bringing up Johnson, who got a two-base hit, which scored Plansky and Gurstenburg. Johnson stole second and came home on Long's single to left. Nilson played up to the pitcher, retiring the side.
